

Ice Storm Susceptibility of Tree Species Found Growing in Urban Areas.

Susceptible	Intermediate	Resistant
American basswood                      American elm                      Bigtooth Aspen                      Black ash                      Black cherry                      Black locust                      Black oak                      Bradford pear                      Butternut                      Common hackberry                      Eastern cottonwood                      Honeylocust                      Jack pine	American beech                      Boxelder                      Chestnut oak                      Chokecherry                      Douglas-fir                      Eastern white pine 	Amur maple                      Bald-cypress                      Balsam fir                      Bitternut hickory                      Black walnut                      Blackgum                      Blue beech                      Bur oak                      Blue Colorado spruce                      Catalpa                      Crabapple                      Eastern hemlock                      Eastern redcedar                      Eastern white cedar
	Gray birch                      Green ash                      Japanese larch                      Loblolly pine                      Northern red oak                      Paper birch                      Pin oak                      Red maple                      Red pine                      Scarlet oak                      Scotch pine                      Slash pine                      Sourwood                      Sugar maple                      Sycamore                      Tamarack                      Tulip poplar                      White ash                      Yellow birch	European larch                      Ginkgo                      Hop-hornbeam                      Horsechestnut                      Kentucky coffeetree                      Little-leaf linden                      Mountain ash                      Norway maple                      Norway spruce                      Ohio buckeye                      Pignut hickory                      Shagbark hickory                      Swamp white oak                      Sweetgum                      White oak                      White spruce                      Witch-hazel                      Yellow buckeye
Pin cherry                      Pitch pine                      Quaking aspen                      Red elm                      River birch                      Siberian elm                      Silver maple                      Virginia pine                      Willow		